KENT ARCHAEOLOGICAL FIELD SCHOOL

It is essential that anyone thinking of digging on an archaeological site is trained in the procedures used in professional archaeology. Dr Paul Wilkinson, author of the best selling "Archaeology" book and Director of the Kent Archaeological Field School, will explain to participants the methods used in modern archaeology. A typical training day will be classroom theory in the morning (at the Field School) followed by excavation at an archaeological site in Kent under the guidance of trained archaeologists.
